This graph represents the importance that the classifier gave to each feature to help determine if an email is considered personal. i.e. an email that contains 'love' has a bigger chance to be personal than an email that does not